

This chart shows the results of a study by scientists around the world. These scientists looked at 40 years of information from zoos, about 800 elephants. They also looked at information about hundreds of elephants in the wild for about the same number of years.